Ice

Between
04:00 Mon 8 Jan 2024 and
10:00 Mon 8 Jan 2024

Icy patches and wintry showers affecting some areas on Monday morning, leading to potentially slower journeys.

What to expect

- Probably some icy patches on some untreated roads, pavements and cycle paths, making accidents or injuries more likely
- Some roads and railways likely to be affected by ice, (and in a few places by snow), leading to longer journey times

Further details

A mix of sleet and snow showers will move in from the east later on Sunday night along with temperatures near zero. Given these wintry showers, and also wet surfaces after recent wet weather, some icy patches are likely on untreated surfaces. Additionally a few of the snow showers could turn quite heavy; these probably only affecting a narrow zone but a few places could see 1-3 cm, mainly over the north Downs and on grassy surfaces.

What should I do?

✓ Medium likelihood of low impacts

Keep yourself and your family safe when it is icy, or small amounts of snow have fallen. Plan to leave the house at least five minutes earlier than normal. Not needing to rush, reduces your risk of accidents, slips, and falls.

If you need to make a journey on foot, try to use pavements alongside main roads which are likely to be less slippery. Similarly, if cycling, try to stick to main roads, which are more likely to have been treated.

Be prepared for weather warnings to change; the Met Office recommends staying up to date with the weather forecast in your area.
